Allowable Subject Matter

2. Claims 18-19 are allowed.
3. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

Claims 18-19 are allowable over the prior art of record. The closest prior art, Miloslavsky and Luzzi, fails to teach or suggest a distributed system including a plurality of application servers, a reporter server and an administration terminal; each of the application servers providing services to a set of clients; collecting, in log files, data including information identifying when each of the application servers was started and stopped and data relating to why the server stopped operating, including the step of each of the application servers periodically searching one of the log files for indication of a crash or a shutdown or a start of the server, and computing the time said crash or shutdown or start occurred; pushing by electronic mail at least one of said log files including said information to the reporter server by electronic mail;

operating the reporter server as a mid-level systems manager by receiving said log files and processing said log files to reduce the amount of information sent to the administration terminal, for each of the application servers, sorting said received electronic mails by order received, calculating the duration of downtime for each said crash or said shutdown; and displaying for each of the application servers said duration of downtime in said order as recited by applicant's claim language and after the broadest reasonable interpretation in light of applicant's disclosure.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
